PPS PUBLISHES ITS ANNUAL BUSINESS PLAN FOR 2015-16

The Public Prosecution Service for Northern Ireland (PPS) today published its Annual Business Plan for 2015-16.

Commenting on the document, the Director of Public Prosecutions, Barra McGrory QC said:

“Over the last year significant progress has been made across a range of key issues for the PPS and its stakeholders, including our relationship with the police, the effectiveness of our structures and performance management arrangements, and our approach to internal and external communication. I would expect to see further successes in these areas during 2015-16.

“Meeting the needs of victims and witnesses is a clear priority for the PPS. During the year ahead, we will seek to introduce further enhancements to the services we offer.

“I am confident that we will adjust to the many challenges facing us, continuing to go about our jobs with professionalism and commitment.”
