PPS PUBLISHES ITS ANNUAL BUSINESS PLAN FOR 2014-15

The Public Prosecution Service for Northern Ireland (PPS) today published its Annual Business Plan for 2014-15.

Commenting on the Business Plan, the Director of Public Prosecutions, Barra McGrory QC said: “Over the last 12 months I believe there has been sustained progress in shaping the PPS to meet the demands of the future. In particular, the implementation of the new Victim and Witness Care Unit in our Belfast and Foyle Offices represents an important step forward.

“While real gains have already been delivered, there is still scope to improve our service delivery and, more generally, our approach to managing and embedding change.

“I am confident that we can rise to the challenges presented to us in the year ahead and continue to improve the service we provide.”
