I refer to your email dated 6 January 2025 in which you requested information. Your request has been dealt with under the terms of the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

Freedom of Information Act 2000

The Freedom of Information Act creates rights of access for any person making a request for information to a public authority. The rights of access are twofold. First, to be informed by the public authority if it holds information of the description specified in the request, and if that is the case, secondly, to be provided with that information. These rights are subject to important limitations, which are designed to achieve a proper balance between the right to know and considerations of law and policy in the broader public interest.

You had asked the following:

“What is the headcount (number) of staff employed in communications, marketing, press and public affairs in your organisation?”

In response, please be advised that the PPS has five members of staff employed in its Communications Unit which has responsibility for a range of activities including; media engagement, staff communications, digital communications and stakeholder engagement. There are no members of staff employed in a marketing or public affairs role.
